YOUR RECOVERY IS IMPORTANT: VIRTUAL RECOVERY RESOURCES

Introduction

Since the coronavirus outbreak began in the US, we have been encouraged to self-quarantine and practice social distancing in an effort to limit the spread of this disease. However, it is important to remain socially connected to continue moving forward in recovery. Virtual resources are vital for individuals in recovery during this time.

This resource guide includes both local and national resources that can be used to virtually support recovery from substance use and mental disorders.
